

Game Plan

Becoming the Referred Health Insurance Partner for Logistics and Owner-Operator Companies

VS Health Benefits | Bradley Vilsaint, Founder and CEO

Goal: Position VS Health Benefits as the go-to health insurance partner that logistics companies, fleets, and owner-operator businesses send their drivers to for coverage.

1. Why This Works

Truckers are one of the most underserved groups in health insurance:

- Most owner-operators and lease drivers are 1099, so no employer covers their health insurance.
- They are on the road constantly, so shopping for coverage is a hassle and most put it off.
- They earn well, so they can afford good coverage but rarely have someone guiding them.
- One accident or illness without coverage can end a driver's career and cost a fleet a truck.

Logistics companies feel this too. Driver turnover is brutal and expensive. A company that helps its drivers get coverage looks like it cares, which helps recruit and keep drivers. That is your opening: you solve a problem for the driver and a retention problem for the company at once, at no cost to the company.

You already have the pieces in place: a dedicated truck-driver landing page, a Refer and Earn program that can pay partners, a Business Leads board to track every company, and a brokerage licensed in 40+ states.

2. Who You Are Targeting

Work these in order of how easy they are to reach and how many drivers they touch.

Tier 1: Direct fleet and driver access

- Owner-operator trucking companies (5 to 100 trucks)
- Lease-purchase and lease-operator programs (drivers are 1099 and need coverage)
- Logistics and freight companies that use owner-operators
- Dispatch companies (they talk to independent drivers daily)

Tier 2: Hubs that reach many drivers at once

- Factoring companies (trusted with drivers' money)
- CDL schools and driver training programs (new, uninsured drivers)
- Truck stops and driver service centers
- ELD and trucking software providers
- Trucking and owner-operator associations

Tier 3: Community and content

- Trucking podcasts, YouTube channels, and owner-operator Facebook groups
- Truck maintenance shops and truck insurance agents (they insure the truck, you insure the driver)

Best first targets: dispatch and factoring companies. They already have the driver's trust and touch them regularly.

3. Your Offer: Three Partnership Models

Pick the model that fits each partner. Lead with Model A because it is the easiest yes.

Model A: Free Value-Add Perk (easiest to close)

- You become the company's recommended health insurance resource, free to the company.
- They simply tell drivers to reach out to VS Health Benefits. No cost, no work.
- Best for companies that want it simple or will not take a payment.

Model B: Paid Referral Partner (your Refer and Earn program)

- The company or owner earns a payout for every driver who enrolls.
- Turns your program into income for the partner, which motivates them to send drivers.
- Best for dispatch, factoring, and owners who want upside. Partners must be clients to collect, a soft way to also insure the owner.

Model C: Embedded Benefits Partner (biggest, longest to build)

- You become the official benefits provider every new driver is pointed to at onboarding.
- Co-branded link, a spot in the driver welcome packet, and a standing referral flow.
- Best for mid-size fleets and lease programs onboarding drivers regularly.

Offer all three and let the partner choose. Most start at A or B and grow into C.

4. The Value Proposition

Frame every conversation around the partner's interest, not yours.

For the company or fleet

- Helps recruit and retain drivers, their number one pain
- Costs them nothing and takes them no work
- Makes them look like they invest in their people
- Optional income if they join Refer and Earn

For the driver

- Free, no-pressure help from a licensed advisor who understands 1099 truckers
- Coverage that travels across state lines
- May deduct 100% of premiums as a self-employed driver
- ACA subsidies checked so they only pay what they should

Your one-liner: "I help your drivers get real health coverage built for truckers, at no cost to you, and it helps you keep them."

5. The Pitch

Elevator pitch (15 seconds)

"I run VS Health Benefits, a licensed brokerage that specializes in health insurance for truckers. I partner with fleets and dispatch companies to give their drivers free help getting covered. It costs you nothing, your drivers get taken care of, and it helps you keep them on the road."

The hook that opens doors

Lead with driver retention, not insurance. Owners do not want another vendor pitch, but they always want to keep drivers. "Losing drivers is expensive. Benefits help keep them, and I make that free and easy for you."

Proof points to have ready

- Licensed in 40+ states
- Specialize in 1099 and owner-operator drivers
- 100% free, paid by carriers not the driver
- The tax write-off angle (deduct 100% of premiums)
- Your truck-driver page as a leave-behind link

6. Outreach Plan

Step 1: Build your target list (Week 1)

Use your Business Leads board. Pull 50 to 100 target companies from FMCSA/SAFER, local fleets, dispatch and factoring companies, and LinkedIn (owners, safety managers, recruiters).

Step 2: Warm up with content (ongoing)

Post on LinkedIn and in trucking Facebook groups about health insurance for owner-operators. Share the truck-driver page and the tax write-off angle so you are a known name before you reach out.

Step 3: Multi-touch outreach (Weeks 1 to 8)

- Connect on LinkedIn with a short, retention-focused note
- Email or message your one-liner plus the truck-driver page link
- Call or text the owner or recruiter (truckers respond to phone and text)
- Offer a 10-minute call, not a sales meeting
- Follow up 3 to 4 times over two weeks, then move on

Step 4: Ask for the referral flow, not a signature

"Can I be the person you point your drivers to when they need health insurance? I will make it dead simple." Get a yes, then set up how drivers reach you.

7. Partner Onboarding (once they say yes)

- Give them a simple way to send drivers: a phone number, a text keyword, and the truck-driver page link.
- If they join Refer and Earn, set up their account to submit referrals and track payouts.
- Give them a one-pager or flyer to hand to drivers or drop in onboarding packets.
- For embedded partners, add a co-branded note or link to their driver welcome materials.
- Confirm how you will report back which drivers enrolled, so they see the value.

Then deliver fast. Respond to every referred driver same day. Your speed and care are what keep the partner sending drivers.

8. Materials You Need

- Truck-driver landing page (done)
- A one-page partner flyer (PDF)
- A driver-facing flyer with a QR code (PDF)
- Outreach email, text, and LinkedIn scripts
- Refer and Earn onboarding for partners who want to earn (done)
- A partner stage view in your Business Leads board (done)

9. Tracking and Managing

Use the Business Leads board in your admin portal as your partner CRM.

- Stage flow: Prospect, Contacted, Interested, Partner, Sending Drivers
- Log every call, text, and email on each company
- Move companies across the board as they progress
- Note which partners actually send drivers and double down on them

10. The 30-60-90 Day Plan

Days 1 to 30: Foundation and first partners

- Build the target list of 50 to 100 companies
- Create the partner one-pager and driver flyer
- Post trucking content weekly
- Contact 10 to 15 new companies per week
- Goal: 3 to 5 companies agree to send drivers

Days 31 to 60: Prove it and refine

- Deliver fast for every referred driver and get a few wins
- Ask happy partners for a testimonial and a peer intro
- Refine the pitch based on objections
- Add Refer and Earn partners who want income
- Goal: 8 to 12 active partners

Days 61 to 90: Scale what works

- Focus on the partner types that converted best (likely dispatch and factoring)
- Turn best partners into embedded partners (Model C)
- Ask partners for intros to associations and larger fleets
- Add a simple referral-partner agreement for serious ones
- Goal: 15 to 20 partners and a steady driver flow

11. KPIs to Track

- Companies contacted
- Partners saying yes (any model)
- Active partners actually sending drivers

- Driver referrals per partner
- Driver enrollments closed
- Which partner type converts best

12. Objection Handling

"We do not want to deal with insurance."

You will not have to. You just point drivers to me and I handle everything. It is free and takes you zero work.

"Our drivers are 1099, that is on them."

Exactly, that is why they need help finding coverage. Pointing them to me looks like you care, helps you keep them, and costs you nothing.

"We already have someone."

No problem. Keep me as a backup for drivers who are not getting the help they need.

"What is the catch or cost?"

There is none for you. I am paid by the carriers, not by you or your drivers. You can even earn a payout when a driver enrolls.

The one thing to remember: Sell driver retention, not insurance. Every fleet owner wants to keep drivers and spends nothing to do it. Give them a free way to look like they care while you quietly build a pipeline of 1099 drivers who need exactly what you offer. Start with dispatch and factoring, deliver fast, and let your best partners introduce you to the rest.
